FROM THE QUARRY TO THE COMPUTER: KIRBY STONE LAUNCHES NEW WEBSITE

Kirby Stone Company, a leading producer and supplier of natural sandstone and natural limestone products direct from its quarries to its customers, has launched its completely redesigned and upgraded website.

In addition to general sections offering information on products, history and experience, Kirby Stone is providing sections with helpful resources that will educate their clients.

STONE 101 is a unique portal that describes natural stone benefits, fundamentals, cuts and masonry patterns.

SPECIFICATIONS is an area that entails in-depth information with regard to coverage, dimensions and available sizes.

The QUANTITY ESTIMATOR is a tool that easily allows clients to input their specific project data to receive projections for approximate quantities needed. By supplying these new avenues of information, Kirby Stone's objective is to display the confidence they instill in their products and strive for their customer to feel the same.

As you'll see in our company HISTORY, Kirby Stone has evolved from its small beginnings to a continually expanding, sophisticated operation. While Kirby Stone has broadened through the Internet, we do not feel that a new website holds the secret to great customer service. Kirby Stone's ultimate goal is to provide exception service and quality natural stone products direct to its customers.

We hope that some of our new features, REQUEST A QUOTE and CONTACT US, will help to establish more expeditious lines of communication between client and company than ever before.

WE WANT TO HEAR FROM YOU!

We want to hear from you! We'd like to get your input and feedback as you go through our new website.

Have we left questions unanswered? Were you able to navigate throughout the website with ease? It is important to us that our customers' needs are met, so please feel free to contact us at any time.

Kirby Stone thanks you for your interest and looks forward to serving you.
